ACTIONS

Multiattack. Grudge makes three Hellfire Greataxe attacks.

Hellfire Greataxe. Melee Weapon Attack: +14 to hit, reach 5 ft. Hit: 21 (2d12 + 8) slashing + 7 (2d6) fire damage.

War Cry (Recharge 5-6). Each orc ally within 120 ft. can immediately make one weapon attack as a reaction and gains 10 temporary HP.

Ground Slam. Each creature within 15 ft. must succeed on a DC 22 STR save or take 28 (4d10 + 8) bludgeoning and be knocked prone.

BONUS ACTIONS

Aggressive Charge. Grudge moves up to his speed toward a hostile creature he can see.

LORE & ESSENCE

"Humans build walls. I build armies. Walls fall. Armies don't."

King Grudge is the terror of the northern wastes. Descended from the legendary Hellbringer line of orc warriors, he has united the scattered orc tribes under one banner through sheer strength and charisma. He is building an army of one thousand warriors — the largest orc force assembled in centuries — with one goal: the destruction of the human and elven kingdoms. He is not mindless. He is patient, strategic, and absolutely certain of his victory.

KEY RELATIONSHIPS

Othorian Nel. The elf king. Grudge considers him the primary obstacle and respects his power.

King Hardfire. The dwarf king. A potential threat on his southern flank.
