TRAITS & FEATURES

Father of Wood Elves. Mourning Wood's ancient magic created the Wood Elf subrace. He has a deep, mystical connection to all forests and their inhabitants.

One with the Forest. While in a forest, Mourning Wood cannot be surprised, has advantage on all ability checks, and can communicate telepathically with any beast or plant.

Simple Living. Despite his immense power, Mourning Wood lives simply in the Quielent Forest. He has no interest in politics, crowns, or wars.

Ancient Druid. Mourning Wood can Wild Shape into any beast of CR 6 or lower with no limit on uses.

LORE & ESSENCE

"The forest does not need a king. It needs a gardener."

Mourning Wood is Othorian's brother, born in the earliest days of the elven people. While Othorian built kingdoms, Mourning Wood built forests. His ancient druidic magic gave rise to the Wood Elves — a gentler branch of elvenkind more attuned to nature. He lives quietly in the Quielent Forest, tending his trees, talking to animals, and wanting absolutely nothing to do with the politics of the realm. He is immensely powerful but would rather grow a flower than fight a war.

KEY RELATIONSHIPS

Othorian Nel. His brother. They love each other but chose very different paths — one built thrones, the other built groves.
