RIGOD — Mythic & Lair

MYTHIC TRAIT & ACTIONS

Apotheosis of Entropy (Recharges after Long Rest). When reduced to 0 HP, Rigod doesn't die. He erupts with chaotic plasma energy, regains 367 HP (half max). Scales crack to reveal veins of purple-white plasma. For 1 hour: Plasma Beam recharges on 4-6, Chaos Engine affects ALL creatures within 60 ft.

Plasma Nova (2 actions). 60-ft. burst centered on self. DC 27 CON save, 55 (10d10) radiant. Creatures reduced to 0 HP are disintegrated.

Rewrite Reality (3 actions). Target one creature within 120 ft. DC 25 CHA save. Fail: Rigod chooses: stunned 1 min (repeating save), position swaps with another creature, or 66 (12d10) psychic + forgets last turn. ♦

LAIR ACTIONS (INITIATIVE 20)

In his lair (the Entropic Mire), Rigod can use one lair action on initiative 20:

Acid Geysers. 3 points within 120 ft. Creatures within 10 ft. each: DC 22 DEX save or 22 (4d10) acid.

Gravity Warp. 40-ft. cube, gravity reverses. Creatures fall upward 40 ft. + falling damage. Normal gravity returns next round.

Planar Bleed. All creatures in lair: DC 22 WIS save or banished to demiplane until end of next turn. ♦

LORE & ESSENCE

"I do not seek conquest. I seek dissolution — the unraveling of order itself."

Rigod was once a mere ancient black dragon, feared across the Mere of Dead Men. Through centuries of hoarding raw chaotic energy seeping from a planar rift beneath his swamp, he transcended mortality.

His acid breath fused with the raw plasma of the Far Realm, becoming a searing beam that cuts through castle walls. Cults of chaos worship him as an avatar of entropy.

His lair, the Entropic Mire, is a place where reality breaks down — physics becomes unreliable and the border between planes is tissue-thin. Rigod does not seek conquest. He seeks the unraveling of order itself, one kingdom at a time.
